Five years have passed since the first edition of the Marketing Area Report in 2012. The members of the Marketing Area of the University of Cologne, including the Professors Hernán Bruno, Marc Fischer, Monika Imschloss, André Marchand, Werner Reinartz, Franziska Völckner and their teams, are happy to look back at another very fruitful and dynamic year 2017. It is our pleasure to share and present the various activities in research, teaching, and service to the community, in which our Area is engaged.

Regarding research performance, we are focused on empirical work and quantification as our hallmark. Numerous publications in academic journals and business media verify the value we add to both, the academic world and practice. Moreover, our researchers contributed actively to many academic conferences and initiatives. This report’s research section provides a summary of publications, conference presentations, dissertations, awards, and research grants.

Conducting impactful research is a necessary premise to guarantee our students an outstanding teaching environment and prepare them for their future careers. In the academic year 2017, we offered a total of 31 courses at the bachelor, master and doctoral level. 140 students completed their thesis at the Marketing Area. The professional education students receive from this faculty is also acknowledged by business practice. Numerous speakers from marketing and management complement the Marketing Area’s teaching activities. In addition to the regular course offerings, our two talent programs for students, ZMM Marketing and More and the Circle of Excellence in Marketing, continue to offer practical insights and networking opportunities in cooperation with our business partners.

The increase of activities in research, teaching, and practice transfer requires us to also grow as a team. Thus, we are proud to welcome Prof. André Marchand and his newly founded Chair of Marketing and Digital Environment to the Marketing Area. We are convinced that Prof. Marchand will be a valuable addition to our staff and help us master the challenges ahead.

If you have any comments and suggestions regarding the content of this report or if you are interested in working with us, we would be glad to hear from you. Enjoy reading this 6th edition of the Marketing Area Report.

Marketing Area—Mission Statement

The Marketing Area strives to provide excellence for our three main stakeholders: the marketing research community, our students, and companies and society.

In our research, we cover a broad spectrum of research topics, ranging from customer and brand management, internet marketing, retailing, to consumer behavior and marketing performance management. Our work predominantly focuses on empirical projects, frequently in cooperation with top national and international companies. Of course, managerial and decision relevance of our results is absolutely important. Our goal is to publish our work in the leading, international journals.

With respect to teaching, the main goal of the Marketing Area is to offer our students academically sound and practically relevant marketing training. In our curricula, we provide theories as well as methods for analysis. These two components are essential, as knowledge quickly becomes obsolete when new and different problems arise, but theoretical frameworks remain applicable, even in unforeseen contexts.

With respect to practice transfer, multilevel and bidirectional exchanges with national and international companies are key. These exchanges include joint research projects and consulting activities. We also seek out interactions and communications with firms during invited talks—in both directions: when our research staff visit companies and when company representatives appear as guests in our lectures. Finally, we foster successful placement of our students with job recruiting events, personal recommendations, and student excellence circles.

His work has been presented at the most important marketing conferences and published in Marketing Science and Journal of Marketing Research. His driving interest focuses on three central ideas of current marketing. First, dynamic models to capture the long-term impact of marketing decisions. Second, he develops methods to model the underlying heterogeneity of customers. Finally, he is looking at how new technologies are changing how individuals and companies consume information and make decisions. He currently teaches Marketing Mix Modeling, Data Analysis with R as well as Value Creation in the Digital World at the University of Cologne and continues teaching Marketing Strategy and Digital Transformation at the Executive Education level.

Prof. Bruno is a founding member of the EMAC Special Interest Group on “Modeling”, lead by Thomas Otter (Frankfurt) with the objective to increase the audience and presentation of modeling papers at the EMAC Conference.

Digital Transformation and Value Creation

Research Initiative:

The digital transformation of our economic and societal systems is fully underway. The changes are massive and long-lasting. Going digital reduces the costs of administering social and commercial transactions, allows for globally networked interactions, and is characterized by real-time, vast datasets that let us observe behavior at a societal scale and with unprecedented detail.

The research initiative wants to contribute to our understanding of how the digital transformation advances value creation commercially (customers and firms) and overall welfare for individuals and society.

Among the most pressing questions are:

- When and how can customers benefit from the digital transformation?
- When and how can firms benefit from the digital transformation?
- When and how can individuals within society and society at large benefit from the digital transformation?

Principal Investigators:

The interdisciplinary nature of the key research area “Digital Transformation and Value Creation” is reflected in the large number of participating researchers and scientific staff from diverse research areas of business, economics, and social sciences.
Impressions of our Symposia

Teaching
Mission Statement

The objective of our teaching is to convey knowledge, theories, and methods in marketing. Theories and methods are critical, because knowledge may become obsolete, whereas theories and methods can always be used to address new challenges.

To acquaint students with the practical implications of the course contents, theories and methodologies are being rigorously applied to real-life situations, using differential methods. Case studies, as they appear in many US-type MBA programs, are common tools. In addition, lectures frequently host guests from the corporate world to provide insights about relevant topics. Contemporary topics appear throughout seminars and students’ theses, which are often conducted in cooperation with companies.

Program Structure

The bachelor of science in business administration is divided into four sections. The core and advanced section includes basics of business administration, economics, and methods. In the supplementary section, the emphasis is put on knowledge obtained in the basic section and on new areas from social sciences and information systems. As the specialisation section consists of a wide range of modules, students have the possibility to choose depending on their interests and professional aspirations. Finally, the studium integrale conveys additional topics such as language and IT skills, as well as other non-related competencies.
Within the program of the master of science in business administration, students can specialize in Marketing through the choice of their major. The Core and Advanced Section will cover methodical basics of the respective major. The Specialisation Section teaches major-specific basics and, in addition, advanced skills within the same area. The Supplementary Section serves as an additional section to develop a more specific profile – either by deepening and specialising or by diversifying knowledge. Further modules from business administration as well as from social sciences or economics are available to students.

offered by the Marketing Area
Doctoral students at the WiSo Faculty have to fulfill a doctoral program. The study consists of five courses, at least three of which are in the area “interdisciplinary methods and theories” [Fachübergreifende Methoden und Theorien] of the Cologne Graduate School. The members of the Marketing Area regularly offer doctoral courses on a wide range of topics, open to all doctoral students of the WiSo Faculty. In addition, internal research seminars, held by expert lecturers from other universities, frequently take place.

Key Notes and Practitioner Presentations

Bridging Research and Practice

The Center for Research in Retailing (IFH)

The IFH offers research and consulting services around retailing in the digital age. Retailers as well as manufacturers in the consumer goods industry benefit from the variety of services and the wide retailing knowledge of the IFH-experts. Founded at the University of Cologne in 1929, the IFH is committed to academic research as well as its application in managerial practice.

The IFH’s goal is to take knowledge gained from research and apply it for the benefit of the retail commerce sector and its stakeholders. This is realized primarily through closely cooperating with the University of Cologne’s Department of Retailing and Customer Management (Director Prof. Werner Reinartz).

IFH-Associates

The IFH Association has been operating as a non-profit organization since 1929 positioning itself at the interface between research and practice. It promotes the mutual exchange of knowledge between academia and commerce in practice. The exchange is active and dynamic through close networking ties and regular discussions.

The IFH Association’s goal is to take knowledge gained from research and apply it for the benefit of the retail commerce sector and its stakeholders. It does this primarily through closely cooperating with the University of Cologne’s Department of Retailing and Customer Management. In this way, IFH Associates gain from original research, databases of knowledge, events and lectures.

IFH Associates include retailers and manufactureds, service providers, professional associations, chambers and public institutions. The committee of the IFH Associates comprises renowned personalities from the German retail sector.

As an IFH Associate, you support the dialogue between research and practice and thereby gain from the added value such dialogue generates.
Activities

In 2017, the IFH focal study has been released under the name “Price Differentiation in Retailing”. To analyze the widely-discussed topic of dynamic pricing, the IFH partnered with the Universities of Cologne and Düsseldorf. The topic was examined from different angles, capturing firm, market, and consumer perspectives and drawing on various data sources (workshop, price tracking, survey, and experimental data). Findings indicate that the media hype around digitally-enabled pricing does not correspond with market realities. Firms are reluctant to introduce personalized prices based on consumer shopping behavior. Consumers, on the other hand, reject many forms of price differentiation, thereby drawing the boundaries for their broad implementation. However, the good news is that some pricing mechanisms are perceived as more favorable than others. This gives companies the opportunity to apply rather acceptable methods of differentiation.

Event: Fascination Retailing

Once a year, the IFH Association calls for its yearly convention “Fascination Retailing” [Faszination Handel]. It provides IFH member companies with new ideas and inspiration from research and practice (www.faszinationhandel.com). The well-established event takes place at the University of Cologne and showcases current academic research findings as well as high-level speakers from practice. It also offers plenty of opportunities for the mutual exchange of information.

The main topic of “Fascination Retailing” in 2017 was “Retailing in Competition: Customers, Concepts, Competencies.” As the first speaker, Prof. Werner Reinartz (University of Cologne) started by presenting main findings of the IFH 2017 study about the impact of price differentiation in retailing. Despite many discussions in media, dynamic pricing has not (yet) come into focus for retailers. Furthermore, customers are skeptical towards the practice of dynamic pricing and individualization. Especially “secret” price changes and those whose reasons are not comprehensible by consumers lead to a significant loss of trust. In the context of online shopping, Prof. Jörn Grahl (University of Cologne) showed the audience, that customers tend to use only one device – smartphone, app or laptop – for purchases. A view on brand marketing in the “do-it-yourself”-market was offered by Karsten Kühn (HORNBACH Baumarkt AG), promoting the importance of customer centricity by looking at craftsmen, and the importance of brand positioning through differentiation to find a way out of commoditization. Boris Hedde (IFH Cologne) closed the event by sharing results of the project “Vital City Centers 2016”, emphasizing the need of a treasurer as a mediator between municipality and retailing to connect the interests of different parties. A review of the event including a short video is available at https://www.ifh-foerderer.de/faszination-handel/rueckblick-faszination-handel-2017/.
The Marketing Accountability Standards Board (MASB)

The Marketing Accountability Standards Board (MASB), established in 2007 and authorized by the Marketing Accountability Foundation, is an independent, private sector, self-governing group of academics and practitioners that establishes marketing measurement and accountability standards intended for continuous improvement in financial performance, and for the guidance and education of users of performance and financial information.

MASB sets standards and processes for evaluating marketing measurement to ensure credibility, validity, transparency, and understanding. The Board does not endorse specific measures. Rather, it documents how measures stack up against the Marketing Metric Audit Protocol (MMAP). The intention is that the market will select specific measures based on these evaluations. The Board’s Dynamic Marketing Metrics Catalogue is intended to be the primary vehicle for documentation and publication.

Board members meet twice every year at its summits to discuss and foster the advancements in marketing metrics and methods in practice and academia. Prof. Marc Fischer is a founding member of the Advisory Council. The council includes prominent personalities from the academic and business world (see below).

Circle of Excellence in Marketing

The Circle of Excellence in Marketing (CoEM) is an exclusive talent program for outstanding students from top German universities. The one-year leadership program offers students the opportunity to extend their Marketing knowledge beyond the university program and come in close contact with companies, professors, and assistants. It thus opens up opportunities for attractive starting positions in international companies. The participating universities include the University of Cologne (Chair of Marketing and Market Research, Chair of Retailing and Customer Management), the University of Münster, and the Free University Berlin.

At the core of the program, company workshops offer students the possibility to work on case studies that focus on real-world management challenges. At the same time, company representatives have the chance to meet potential job candidates in an interactive situation. Informal practitioner meetings, alumni meetings, and get-togethers with Marketing chairs also help students look behind the scenes of the Marketing function in well-known companies.

Students from the University of Cologne participated in the following CoEM workshops in 2017:

Executive Workshop: Data, Experiments, and Decisions, November 24 and 25

Organizer: Assoc.-Prof. Hernán A. Bruno, Prof. Jörn Grahl

The digital world brings new challenges and ideas to the manager’s agenda. The challenges faced by companies feed our academic research with timely and relevant questions. We aim to incorporate a wide range of business practices and emerging academic disciplines into our work and are always looking forward to hearing from managers and finding ways to cooperate with them.

One avenue for a cooperation is conducting workshops or seminars about the digital transformation of business and society. Assoc.-Prof. Hernán Bruno and Prof. Jörn Grahl led an executive workshop in which they brought together scientists experienced in analytics and data science and companies interested in using experiments to improve their business.

The workshop inspired interesting discussions with 15 executives from diverse industries including startups and digital firms and provided valuable insights for both, academics and practitioners.
